Ambulance volunteers to get $1 an hour while on call

Service seeks to plug holes in coverage by per-diem paramedics

By MICHAEL DANIELS

The Bethel Ambulance Service plans to sweeten the pot in hopes of attracting more people to serve as on-call volunteers.

But it's just a pinch of sweetener that BAS Director Arlene Greenleaf has in mind — one dollar an hour.

Greenleaf plans to start paying on-call volunteers sometime this month. Up until now volunteers have not been paid for being on the schedule, but only when they are actually on a call.

The amount of money is small, Greenleaf told the town selectmen Monday, but at least it is something. "People have said: 'At least it will pay my gas money,'" she said.

This is the Ambulance Service's latest attempt to deal with a statewide problem, the declining number of trained medical responders both volunteer and professional.

For the Ambulance Service, the problem is at its most acute during the day, when many potential volunteers are unable to be on call because of other responsibilities.

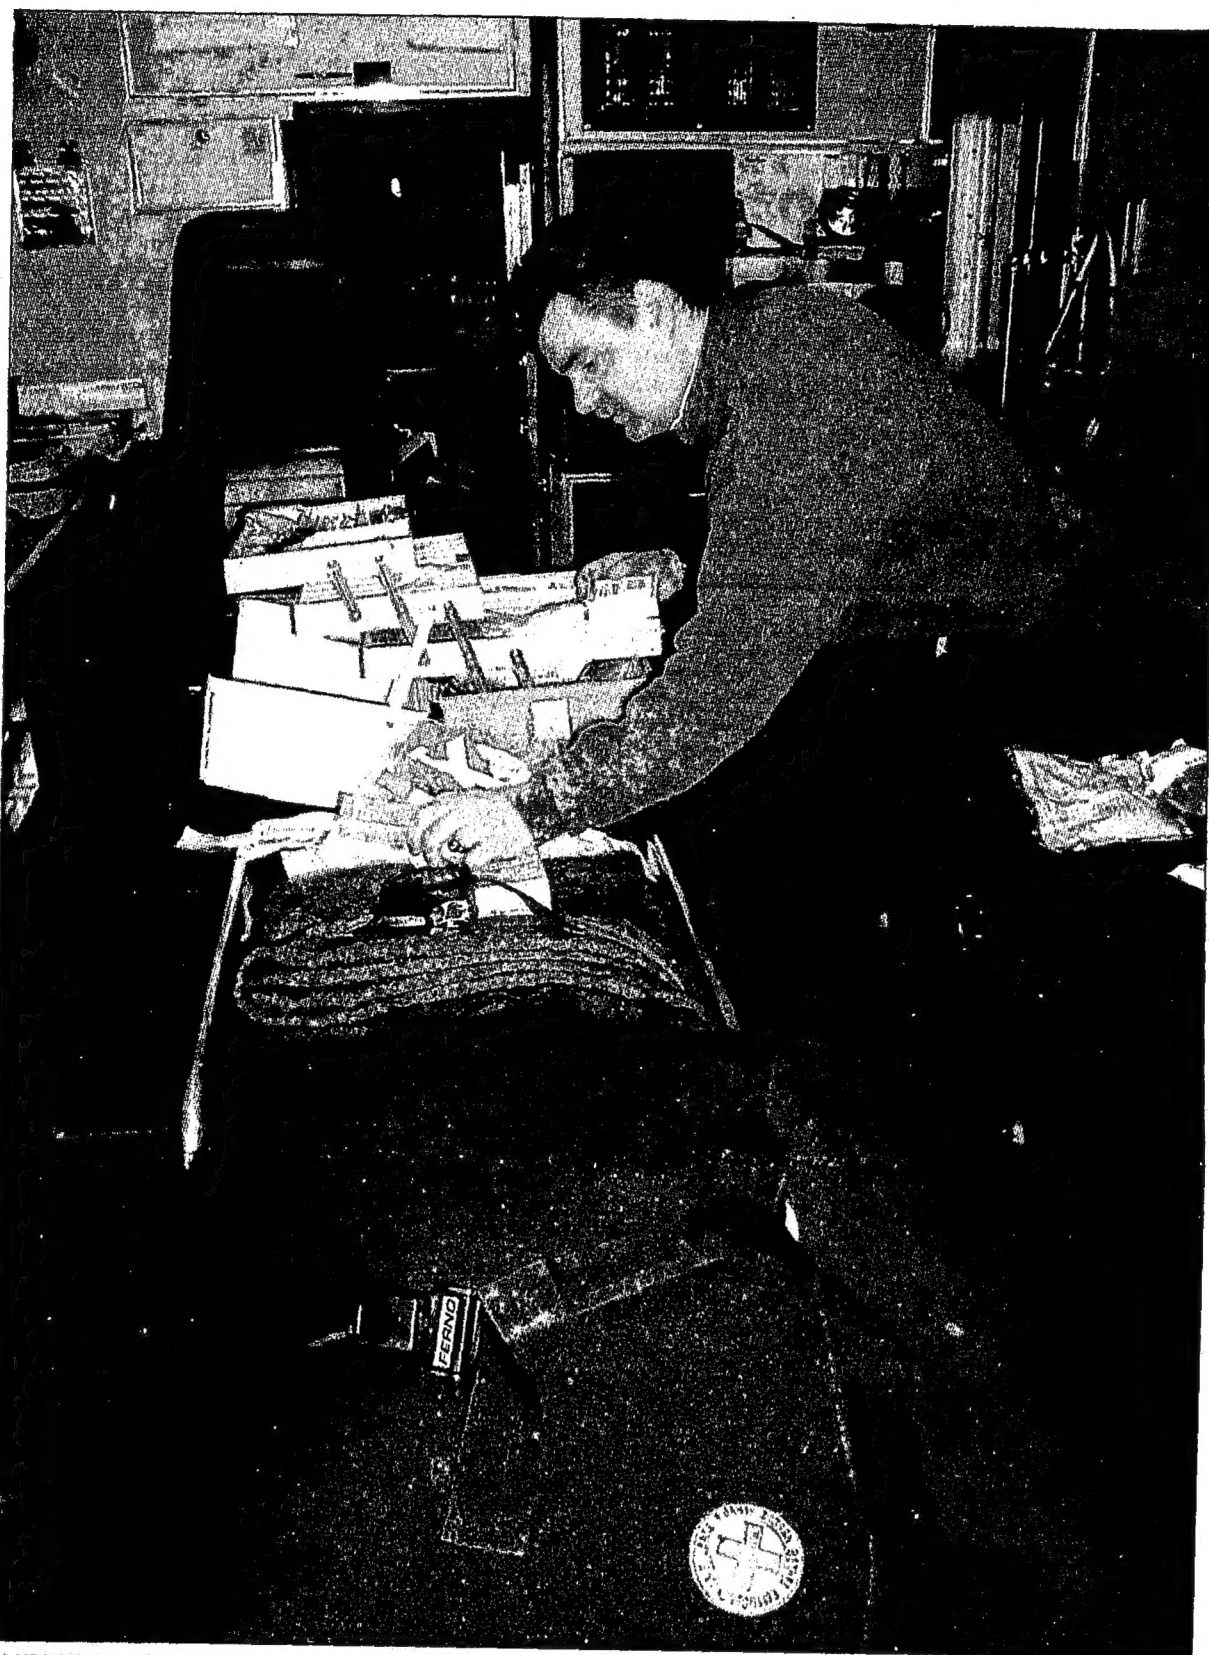

To help remedy this situation, Bethel voters agreed at Town Meeting in June to spend an additional $40,000 a year to staff the service during the day with professional paramedics, who would be paid $10 an hour for 12-hour day-time shifts.

That arrangement went into effect Aug. 1, but so far the service has been able to fill only half its day-time slots.

The problem, Greenleaf said, is not the pay rate, despite the fact that Bethel is "low man on the totem pole as far as rates."

"There are just not enough paramedics to go around," she told the selectmen. "Right now in the state

CHECKING SUPPLIES—Paramedics like Wilbur Crowell perform a number of tasks while on their 12-hour shifts at the Bethel Ambulance Service, for which they are paid $10 an hour. But the service has been able to fill only half its time slots, said Director Arlene Greenleaf, and coverage for the remaining days is still provided by volunteers, who must remain on call in the local area. In an effort to encourage more volunteers — who, like the paid paramedics, are in increasingly short supply — the Ambulance Service will soon begin paying on-call volunteers $1 an hour. ## SAD44 nixes clothing promoting tobacco

But visitors exempted for now

By ALISON ALOISIO

Prompted in part by the possibility SAD44 could receive money for an anti-tobacco education grant, the School Board voted Monday that students and staff could not wear clothing advertising tobacco products in school.

Visitors to the school will not be included in the ban — but that could change, pending review by the board's Policy Committee. A committee proposal to also ban the clothing among visitors was sent back to the committee by directors.

The clothing proposal was initiated in conjunction with a district application for a state-funded anti-tobacco education grant, according to district officials. The grant, if approved, would provide about $30,000 in each of the next several years to fund a district coordinator for anti-tobacco education.

The funds would come as part of Maine's share of a recent successful lawsuit by many states against tobacco companies.

Directors had no problem with approving a ban on students and staff wearing clothing advertising tobacco products. But some, including chairman Kelly Scotti of Andover, thought that telling guests what they can wear in the buildings was going too far.

"We're a community building," she said. "If they're a visitor, they're a visitor. I think we should be thankful they're here."

Scotti said she supported restrictions on the behavior of visitors, but not on what they wear.

Director Sid Pew, also of Andover, said he was concerned that singling out a particular item or

Administrators' pay hikes set

By ALISON ALOISIO

SAD44 directors Monday approved a 3.5 percent annual salary increase for each of the next three years for several district administrators. Dr. Patrick O'Neill, principal of Telstar high and middle schools, currently earns $70,000 a year. His salary for the upcoming three years will be $72,450, $74,986 and $77,610.

David Murphy, principal of the elementary schools, earns $63,486. He will earn $65,708, $68,008 and $70,388 over the next three years.

Carroll Higgins, assistant principal/athletic director, now earns $52,636. His salary for the upcoming years will be $54,478, $56,385 and $58,358.

Sally Hannon, assistant principal at Telstar Middle School, makes $42,849. She will earn $44,349, $45,901 and $47,507.

Ann Holt, special education director, currently earns $59,999. She will earn $62,099, $64,272 and $66,522.

Cathy Newell, adult education director, earns $49,345. She will make $51,072, $52,860 and $54,710.

Benefits for the administrators, now at $7,750 annually, will increase to $8,000, $8,500 and $9,000 over the next three years.

Prior to approving the agreement, the School Board held an executive session. They voted on the package without public comment. Director Jeff Harren of Greenwood voted in opposition.

Midwest pastor and his family now call Bethel home

By REBECCA ZICARELLI

When Rick Mowery was installed as pastor of the Bethel Alliance Church five years ago, he noticed that the church had a reputation in town as "that church out on Route 26."

Mowery set out to integrate the church into the Bethel community. With a mixture of old-time religion and community activism based on faith, humor, and flash, Mowery is succeeding, too.

He is an active member of both the Bethel Chamber of Commerce and the Rotary, and he drives ambulance for Bethel Rescue. He is frequently seen driving through town in his black Mazda MX3, not the typical car for a gray-haired preacher.

And he is well known for his sense of humor and his respect of others.

Cynthia Moran-Laux has worked with Mowery closely in both the Chamber and Rotary, becoming a close friend over the years. "He's really good about putting things in perspective, and enjoying things," she said. "We always tease him about the fact that he works just one day a week, but he really works all the time. He's really conscientious of people's pride, and he respects people, religiously and otherwise."

Mowery purposely tries to lighten things up and do the unexpected — both at the pulpit and in the community. "There's a place for solemn," he said. "Dealing with sin, I'm very serious. But Christians ought to be happy people. They ought to live their lives with a sense of inner joy."

Class will explore how to transform a life into a quilt

By ALISON ALOISIO

A few years ago, Nina Mollicone of East Bethel took a USM writing class in which students wrote their life story. They examined, said Mollicone, "the pieces that made you what you are."

To Mollicone, an avid quilter, working in pieces was second nature. Why not, she thought, tell a life story in the fabric of a quilt?

She kept the idea in the back of her head until she took another class this summer, titled "Aging and Life Review." Students were asked to create a project portraying a review of their lives — that is, an evaluation of their life story. Her project choice: put on paper a design for a quilt portraying her life.

For a month and a half, Mollicone drew pictures on a quilt-size piece of paper. She used the metaphor of a winding road, with pictures of people and places important to her. Prominent along the way was the East Bethel farm of her grandparents, Bernice and Leslie Noyes, where Mollicone now lives.

"Definitely the happiest times of my life were here with my grandparents," she said. "Going with my grandfather to hay, milking the cows. And my grandmother taught me to oil paint." A tractor in the field and an easel depict some of those memories.

She also included pictures of places she has traveled, educational milestones reached along the way, and pets.

Now, Mollicone is at the stage of turning it into a quilt. And she likes the idea so well she wants to share it with others. She will teach a class in planning a life-story quilt for SAD44 Adult Education this semester. Although she quilts primarily with appliqué (creating pictures in cloth

DIVERT THE FUNDS TO THE BRIDGE

To the Editor:

As I write this letter I feel like the little boy in the fairy tale, "The Emperor Wore No Clothes" must have felt. I am going to state the obvious — something many people know and talk about but to my knowledge has not been recently discussed in public.

Eventually, a snowmobiler will be killed while crossing the Androscoggin River on the bridge over by the Big Apple convenience store. It would be nice if we could avoid this tragedy by building a bridge across the river for snowmobile and pedestrian usage.

I know that the town at one time had $100,000 to build such a bridge, but for some unexplainable reason that was not enough money, and through some political maneuvering these funds were diverted to the Bethel Parkway project.

I have done a fair amount of snowmobiling over the years and seen numerous bridges across large rivers that I think could easily be built for $100,000. The bridge in Gilead and the one crossing Wild River near Hastings Campground are two local examples that come to mind.

I would be willing to bet that within one or two years after the first death that a bridge suddenly appears. Why wait? Let's cut through the bureaucratic red tape and divert the funds back to the bridge as originally proposed and get the job done now before a tragedy occurs.

NEW YEAR'S BETHEL THANKS

To the Editor:

Bethel Historical Society's New Year's Bethel III was the "most." The most beautiful evening, weather- and temperature-wise; most joyous of occasions evidenced by the endless smiles (the most seen all season by the folks giving the bell-bedecked horse and wagon rides); the most delightful entertainment in the venues provided most generously by Gould Academy (Gould auditorium and gym) and West Parish Congregational Church as well.

The Historical Society is most thankful to the many who made it such a memorable time, from the 4 p.m. Watch Night services to the ringing church bells and Bethel Inn's fireworks at midnight. The parade had just the right amount of twinkling lights. Several said the food court and its setting were the best yet. About the entertainment, folks can't yet say what they liked the most. There's still awe of Newry's Gray-Caybes, who shared their blessings of family and musical talents. There still are no words to describe Leland Faulkner's special brand of magic. There was delight in the sweet sounds of the guitars and voices of Jewel and Donnie who, on the spot, composed a song about the fire at Moses Mason, while Henry Bascomb's tales of "slicken" and other "Fahmah" observations produced non-stop laughter. At the same time, laughter at the silent films' antics was enhanced by Clayton Smith's piano changing quickly to the film's mood. And State Street Jazz members, who have become synonymous with New Year's Bethel, were as happy to be back as were the revelers who tapped their feet and hands to the music and, as the band members said, "... here in Bethel we look out and see smiles, that's why we like to come here so much."

It was a celebration of the wonderful spirit in this beautiful village where there are numerous options for New Year's Eve. Only this one offers a fire on the common (and the marshmallows to toast over it) for all who happen by to enjoy a sweet treat, to linger a minute near its warmth, just to hang out, to gather 'round for the fireworks and reflection on the most joy-filled evening. And when most have gone home, a person appeared to shovel snow on the fire -- most considerate and appreciated.

Thanks. Happy New Year. Let us hear your thoughts for New Year's IV.

Pastor

RICK MOWERY, PASTOR AT THE BETHEL ALLIANCE CHURCH, and his wife Peggy (left) have found many ways to reach out into the Bethel area community. Last Sunday they ordered Girl Scout Cookies after the service from Brandy Figueroa. Mowery's other methods of reaching out include active memberships in the Rotary and Chamber of Commerce, and he drives ambulance for the Bethel Ambulance Service.

The Bethel Alliance Church is a member of the Christian and Missionary Alliance, a denomination of evangelical and fundamental churches. The words "evangelical" and "fundamental" have connotations that are not always positive to many people. Mowery said people develop expectations of him based on those words. One of his purposes is to try to break some of attendant stereotypes.

So he drives the Mazda, because he likes to drive fast. He cracks jokes and teases when people get too serious. He donates his time to non-secular causes, but in doing so, he serves his higher calling.

"I hold to the fundamental teachings of the Scriptures," he said, "but 'fundamental' has come to mean so many other things in the media. I preach right from the Scriptures. That's what fundamental means."

"Evangelical means 'out giving the message of Jesus Christ.' When I think about the life of Jesus, I see him reaching out to people where they are. He wasn't a center of community, but he always reached out."

"If I am going to lead a church in this community, we have to be part of the community."

And so, to lead by example, Mowery comes into the community, offering himself. He enjoys his work with the Chamber and the Rotary. But he has really connected with the extended community through the ambulance service.

"Driving the ambulance has been great," Mowery said. "I enjoy helping, and it has been a great opportunity to get to know so many people in the area."

Arlene Greenleaf is pleased to have Mowery on her crew. "We love having him," she said. "He's been one of the bright spots recently. He loves what he does, he's there when we need him, and he has a great sense of humor."

There are many other opportunities that Mowery wishes he had time for, such as the Friends of Odeon Hall. "I'm over-extended already," he said. "But I'd love to help rejuvenate Odeon Hall. It is such a special place."

The congregation of the Bethel Alliance Church has been reaching out into the community with several new ministries, as well.

Currently, they are building a Helping Hands Ministry. Members community, not just members of the church.

Looking to the future of serving the community, the church realized that daycare for pre-school children and after-school care are critical. They are currently considering ways to use their church to provide daycare that is safe and affordable, and most important, caring. They would like to provide the children in their care with an extended family rather than just a place to pass the day while Mom and Dad go to work.

Vivian Hoy, a member of the congregation since the church was founded, is pleased that the church is reaching out.

"Pastor Mowery is an excellent minister," she said. "His people love him. When his people need him, he is always right here to support us. He does a lot of work in the community. The church is trying every way they can to help people that are outside."

Hoy finds the church a warm, supportive, and friendly place. "We want to reach out to people ourselves. We don't force our message on them, but we try to share it with them if we can."

Mowery's wife, Peggy, is a vital part of his ministry. Peggy works for Maine Line Products. She also works with the "congregation," teaches Bible lessons, and plays the flute during church services.

On Sunday afternoons, between 5 and 6 p.m., she co-leads the Mother's Circle of Prayer. Women from the church gather to discuss children in need, both their own and others they know of, and to pray for those troubled children.

"We feel it is our special burden to pray for the Telstar kids across the street," Peggy said. "Whenever we hear of need for the kids at school, we'll pray for them."

Rick, Peggy, and their two sons, Joshua and Jason, came to Bethel from Michigan, where he grew up and pastored for six years, and Ohio where he pastored for 10 years. After five years here, the Mowerys have come to love the Bethel area, and feel that it is home now.

"I wanted to get out of the Midwest," Mowery said. "And I liked the idea of New England. I fell in love with the people at this church, and the area speaks for itself. I'd always heard about the coldness of New Englanders. I found that not true."

The warmth of the congregation attracted Mowery to the area. "They are very caring," he said. "The people outshine me in a passion for caring for those with special needs. They are teaching me. I am thankful for the philosophy here."

The beauty of the area, the many friendships the Mowerys have made here, and the faith of their congregation will keep them here for a long time.

of the congregation have committed a few hours each week to perform tasks for people with special needs. They may read to someone, give a caregiver a much needed break, help with housecleaning, or other chores.

Helping Hands go to anybody in the Bethel area in need, they are not limited to members of the Bethel Alliance Church.

Recognizing that food, the physical sustenance of life, is critical to people in times of crises, the church has also begun a Meals Ministry. The members of the congregation provide meals to families in times of crisis such as illness or death. Again, the ministry reaches out to members of the greater subject for restriction could leave the board legally liable. "We may be stepping over the bounds of First Amendment rights," he said.

Pew suggested that instead of creating a formal policy for visitors, the district should informally request them to refrain from wearing the clothing.

But Dave Langlois of Newry disagreed, saying the board should do what it can to protect youngsters from tobacco advertising. "Look at the product," he said. "We have to offer every counter move we can against this."

Supt. Kent Rosberg said there would be no strong arm enforcement of such a rule. If someone showed up at a school event wearing tobacco-related clothing, the person would be told, "Next time don't wear it," he said.

He said he envisioned education as the primary enforcement measure, as happened in the case of the district's prohibition of hats in school buildings.

When that rule went into effect several years ago, Rosberg said he first noticed many people still wearing hats at school functions. But as time went on and people became aware of the rule, the number greatly diminished. "It's a matter of education and time," he said.

The board's discussion concluded when director Jill Rundle, chairman of the Policy Committee, withdrew the committee's recommendation pending further review.

Absences and sports
Directors also approved a policy outlining rules for students participating in sporting events or other activities after being absent from school.

The new rule reads, "Students who are absent from school the day of an activity/contest may not participate in that activity/contest unless permitted by an administrator. If the activity/contest takes place on a non-school day, the participant must be in school the previous day or obtain permission in advance from an administrator."

The policy was prompted by an incident in which several Telstar High School soccer players took a Friday off from school to go to the Fryeburg Fair — then showed up for a soccer game the next day, according to principal Dr. Patrick O'Neill. He said the rule would also apply to other activities, such as school dances.

Director Janet Brown of Woodstock supported the policy. "We need to make it clear, students can't take off willy-nilly," she said.

But Pew worried the requirement that students get approval specifically from an administrator for a legitimate absence could be a problem if the administrator was out of town or otherwise unreachable.

Despite Pew's objection, the policy was easily approved. In other business, directors approved submitting an application for a Maine Cooperative Extension Service grant for a childcare and enrichment program in all three elementary schools.

"For the past several years, groups have been trying to find a way to deal with latchkey kids," said elementary principal David Murphy.

More children go home today to empty homes than they did 10 years ago, he said. The $60,000 a year, five-year grant, if approved, would be used to provide both before- and after-school programs for K-5 pupils. "We hope for a decision (on the grant) in two to three weeks," Murphy said.

Insurance company changed

WOODSTOCK—Selectmen voted last week to change Woodstock's health insurance coverage from Anthem Blue Cross-Blue Shield to Aetna U.S. Healthcare. The move will save the town $200 per month. The total annual cost will drop from approximately $27,400 to about $25,400. The town pays 100 percent of employees' health insurance premiums. They said they may have to ask employees to pay a portion of the monthly premium. In other business, selectman Steve Bies said he is organizing a study committee to consider eliminating some of Woodstock's street lights to reduce costs. The town has more than 60 fixtures. It was also reported the Tri-Town Ambulance and Rescue Service's bay in the old town garage is ready to use. The rescue unit will be moved from the new town garage/fire station building to create more space for the Fire Department. The old garage project has been done mostly by volunteers from the ambulance, fire and highway departments.

Late start and workshop postponed

BETHEL—The scheduled delayed start for school at Telstar scheduled for Friday, January 12, has been cancelled. Students should arrive at school at the normal time. A homework workshop for parents of elementary, high and middle school students in SAD44 scheduled for tonight (Thursday) has been postponed and will be rescheduled.

Ferguson to chair committee

AUGUSTA—Sen. Norm Ferguson, Jr. (R-Hanover) has been appointed to serve as the Senate Chair of the Utilities and Energy Committee during the 120th Maine Legislature. "Utilities and energy issues are becoming more important in Maine after the restructuring of the 90s," Senator Ferguson said. "I am anxious to start working with both Republicans and Democrats to see what legislative improvements can be made to strengthen that industry." Senator Ferguson will also serve on the Judiciary Committee, which, among other duties, is responsible for Indian land claims.

C.N. Brown fined for spills

WATERFORD—The C.N. Brown Co. has been fined $10,000 for three oil spills that happened almost three years ago. One took place at a private residence in Waterford and two at buildings owned by SAD6 in Standish. Jim Dusch, director of enforcement for DEP, said the agency was beginning to see a pattern with the company's retail deliveries in which they overfilled tanks and did not report spills or clean them up as required.

Junkyard permit OK'd

GREENWOOD—Selectmen last week approved a junkyard permit for Tom Warden of Richardson Hollow Road. Town Manager Carol Whitman complimented the condition of the junkyard, saying he follows the laws and recently had a number of cars flattened and removed.

Newry negotiates cable

NEWRY—Town officials met last week with representatives of Adelphia cable company to negotiate a new cable contract. The most recent contract expired at the end of 2000. Selectmen are trying to obtain cable service for the entire town. Currently, only some roads and clustered development around Sunday River Ski Resort receive the service. Other areas of town have not met the company's population density requirements. Selectmen have argued all residents are entitled to service because of the large amount of business Adelphia gets from the clustered development. At last week's meeting, the company asked for updated information about residences, selectman Steve Wight said. The two parties will meet again at a date yet to be arranged, he said.

Tubing at Mt. Abram

LOCKE MILLS—Snow tubing returned to Mount Abram Ski Resort this past Saturday. The 600-foot park has its own lift and three tubing runs, each shaped like a miniature half-pipe. Levels include beginner, intermediate and expert.

Watch for eagles

GORHAM, N.H.—The public is invited to join the North Country Chapter of the Audubon Society of New Hampshire in a eagle-monitoring trip along the Androscoggin River Jan. 13. The outing is part of a national effort coordinated by the National Biological Service to estimate the number of bald eagles wintering in the U.S. All states conduct the survey in mid-January and report their results to NBS. Participants will learn about bald eagle natural history and learn skills to help monitor the bird. Anyone interested should meet at McDonald's in Gorham at 7:30 a.m. on the 13th. The trip is free, and will conclude around noon. For more information, call (603) 449-1376.

Elder hotline now available

AUGUSTA—Maine's five agencies on aging have launched a statewide resource line. The 1-877-ELDERST (1-877-353-3771) number allows people to place a toll-free call from anywhere in the state and be connected immediately to the Agency on Aging which serves the caller's area. All agencies are part of a national network with the objective of connecting people to programs and services that enhance life and help maintain independence. Each agency is an independent, non-profit organization, not a department of state government. The hotline service is provided in response to a growing number of calls for information and assistance. Almost 18 percent of Maine's population is 60 or older. "The ELDERST line is like one-stop shopping — you only need to remember one number to connect you to the latest information and resources available," said Muriel Scott executive director of Senior Spectrum. SeniorsPlus is the agency for Oxford County.

King observance planned

NEWRY—A Martin Luther King Day celebration will take place Monday, Jan. 15, at the Sunday River Inn & Cross Country Center. A fireside remembrance is scheduled for noon. Representations of historical figures in the Civil Rights Movement will be displayed along the trails.

Dr. Murphy, online professor

PORTLAND—SAD44 elementary principal Dr. David Murphy has been chosen as an adjunct faculty member for the state's first on-line degree program for working educators who wish to pursue their post-master's credentials. Murphy will teach Instructional Technology for the Information Age in the on-line graduate program during the spring semester at the University of New England.

Milan woman on "Survivor"

MILAN, N.H.—A 45-year-old Milan woman has been chosen to take part in the CBS "Survivor" television series, to be set in the outback of Australia. Debb Eaton will be one of 16 contestants in the 13-episode series, which will begin Jan. 28. Eaton, originally from Milwaukee, is a corrections officer at the Northern New Hampshire Correctional Facility in Berlin.

From the Bethel Police Log:

Could they have done it if they tried?

At 8:30 p.m. on Jan. 6 police were dispatched to the scene of a property damage accident on Route 2. Two drivers had managed to pass each other in opposing lanes and strike each other's side mirrors. There was less than $1,000 damage.

Thursday, Jan. 4

At 2:45 p.m. police received a report that subjects in a vehicle had stolen an "open" flag from a village business. At 3 p.m. the vehicle was stopped and a subject summonsed for theft after confessing to the crime (no name given).

At 4:15 p.m. the following subjects were charged as a result of an ongoing investigation of a burglary that took place at a West Bethel residence last week: Tony Mason, 20, of Bethel was charged with burglary, assault, criminal mischief and disorderly conduct; Jason L. Coolidge, 22, of Bethel was charged with conspiracy to commit assault, disorderly conduct and criminal trespass; Axel Annis, 21, of Bethel was charged with conspiracy to commit assault, disorderly conduct and criminal trespass; and Rebekah A. Howe, 20, of Bethel was charged with conspiracy to commit assault and criminal trespass.

Friday, Jan. 5

At 8:55 p.m. police observed two vehicles parked illegally on Clark Street. They were about to be towed when the owners came out and paid the wrecker operators and got their vehicles released.

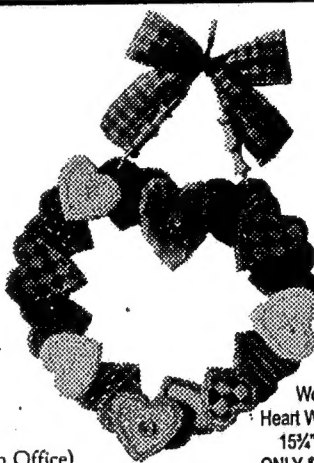

This report highlights points of interest from the Bethel Police Department log. It lists all cases of adults being arrested or issued a criminal summons, but does not include all reports of other police activity. To reach the Bethel Police Department, call 911 in emergency situations, 824-3437 in non-emergencies.

Ambulance

of Maine there's a real crunch. It's not just Bethel Rescue, it's the same with every service."

Gaps in the per-diem paramedic coverage continue to be filled by on-call volunteers — who are in increasingly short supply.

"It's come to the point where we have to pay the volunteers to stand by and be available," she said.

Along with the dollar-an-hour carrot, Greenleaf said, she is also wielding a stick — people who are members of the Ambulance Service but who seldom volunteer to be on call will be asked to resign.

They'll be told: "Turn in your equipment if you can't be on the schedule," she said.

The selectmen readily agreed to the on-call payments (which will come from unspent paramedic funds).

Chairman Dutch Dresser, however, also said the board needed to stay on top of the Ambulance Service situation, especially in light of the growing difficulty in finding volunteers.

"The position we have to be in as a board is to continue to take your pulse," he told Greenleaf. "We hope to keep (the volunteer service) working, but we have to know what to do when it doesn't."

When it doesn't, the obvious option would be contracting with a professional ambulance service, but even these are stretched thin these days, noted Selectman Reggie Brown.

Greenleaf agreed. "I don't think you're going to get any other ambulance service at the present time," she told the board.

A professional service would also be much more costly, said Town Manager Scott Cole. The town currently spends approximately $80,000 a year (net after revenues), he said later, while the estimates for hiring a professional service are in the range of $220,000 to $240,000 year.

Dresser agreed. "There's no question but this is the most cost-effective way to do the job," he said, "and I haven't heard any complaints the service isn't fine."

Quilt

by drawing or tracing, and then sewing them to the quilt), she hopes quilters with other methods and interests will join her in the class. "Some people can create just from pieces of cloth," she said.

She also hopes the group can share "how they do details in cloth," she said. The class will not include the actual making of quilts. It will focus on the planning of the design, and she hopes, the sharing of ideas.

"There's a social aspect to the class," she said. "We can learn from each other. One of the greatest gifts you can give someone is the sharing of your story."

But if participants would rather not share details of their past, that's all right, too. The main goal, she said, is to design the quilt. After class members go on to complete the quilt, they will have "a beautiful representation of their life story for their family," she said.

Aspiring quilters are also welcome, she said. They may also design a plan and then follow it with a separate quilt-making class.

Mollicone plans to toss out questions at the first session to get her students thinking. What people influenced your life the most? What are your happiest memories of childhood? What are your favorite things to do?

Mollicone doesn't necessarily want to lock people into a specific subject with the theme of a life story, she said. Variations may include a family-story quilt, or one depicting a particular event in one's life.

She emphasizes participants don't have to be artistic to design a quilt. "You can draw stick figures — that's what I've done," she said. She plans to embroider the figures on her quilt.

Mollicone said she has not seen the idea of a life-story quilt used anywhere else. Several years ago she saw a quilt depicting an historical event in a town, she said. The famous AIDS quilts of years past generally represent a "snapshot" of an AIDS victim's life, she said.

For more information on the class, call Adult Education at 824-2780.

Bethel

by Virginia Keniston Muriel (Merlie) Butters returned home from a two-week visit with her son, Tony, and family in Magnolia, Del.

Caroline Gould is a surgical patient at Maine Medical Center in Portland.

The Methodist Women met on Thursday at the church for their monthly meeting. A film was shown, "The Fourth Wise Man." The Rev. Betty Weshoven of Gray attended the meeting.

This week began the first of five trips to Sunday River for participation in the Rug Rats Ski Program by the Crescent Park School fourth- and fifth-graders.

The Women's Fellowship of the West Parish Congregational Church met the first Wednesday of January at the Philbrook Farm in Shelburne, N.H. for their annual luncheon, with Eileen Opie and daughter Marta as guests. Persis ("Sis") Post's birthday was celebrated.

Al and Lee Barth spent Christmas in Chicago with Tess and Alina Voelker, after which they traveled to Glenwood Springs, Colo., where they spent New Year's with their new grandson, Henry Alvin Barth, son of Bruce and Sarah Barth.

Matthew Vincent of San Francisco spent the holidays with Jerry and Shireen Vincent. Spending New Year's with them were Shireen's brother, Richard and Andrea Snider of Salisbury, Mass.

Mary Lou and Roger Killelea of Walpole, Mass., visited with Hi and Mary Lou Berry over the weekend and helped her mother celebrate her birthday on Saturday.

Mary Lou Berry, Bill Cousins and Alberta Merrill were guests of honor at a potluck supper held Sunday evening at the Cousins' home on Paradise. Attending were Hi and Mary Lou Berry, Alberta Merrill, Rod Harrington, Bob and Polly Davis, and the host and hostess.

Freda Davis hosted a Longaberger Basket Party at her home on Sunday afternoon, with Elizabeth Gallagher as demonstrator.

"The Girls" went out for lunch and to celebrate Ginny Hutchins' birthday at Mothers on Tuesday, Jan. 9. Those attending were Mary Keniston, Arlene Brown, Ginny Hutchins, Kay McMillin and Ginny Keniston.

Bethel House

by Ruth Cummings

Frank Staples of Waterville, Bridget Lancaster and Guy Burnham celebrated Christmas on Dec. 24 with dinner and gifts at Ginny Walker's. Ginny joined them Christmas morning for Christmas breakfast at Rabbit Road. Ginny was the guest of Johnny and Edleen Winslow and family Christmas night.

Dean Walker, son of Ginny Walker, has returned home to Renton, Wash. following a trip to Nepal, India. While there he and 21 others climbed Mt. Katmandu, which is 18,000 feet high.

Vada Glover, my niece, started back for St. Petersburg, Fla. on Dec. 29. She went two days earlier than planned due to the expected snowstorm. She plans to stay until April. I see a long, lonely winter ahead.

Vada was up to see me on the 26th and we went to Pat's Pizza. In 511 games of cribbage for 2000, Vada was seven games ahead. She went to visit Rodney and Kathy Hanscom of 85 Intervale Road and then stopped by to see Warren Powers after she left my house that day.

KC Denton of PMV Coastal was at the Bethel House Thursday on maintenance. He adjusted my new water heater so that hot water is hotter and did lots of other work.

Cathy and Martha Newell visited me one day recently, as did Drew and Judy Webster. Visits and phone calls will sure help to make my winter seem shorter.

There were a lot of poinsettias, placed at the Bethel Alliance Church this year by members in honor or memory of their loved ones. Later 10 more were placed there by Bob and Cynthia Laux of Wild River Realty in honor of their parents as well as friendship with Pastor Rick.

Pastor Rick's message for Dec. 31 was "The Other Side of Christmas."

Quite a storm we had with some places getting as much as a foot, and I guess you could call that a mini Magalloway thaw. For information on a Magalloway thaw, phone me at 824-2813.

The one that plowed the parking lot at the Bethel House certainly did a wonderful job of the mini Magalloway thaw. One reason was everyone had moved his/her car so the parking lot was clear. Someone was here first before daylight and then came back later after it had snowed a little more.

Davene and Bill Mitchell are spending the winter in Jacksonville, Fla., and with Mr. and Mrs. Gene Jarvis in Desert Hot Springs, Calif.

Olive Williams has returned to the Bethel House after spending a month with her daughter, Irene Standish, in Hollywood, Fla.

Ronnie and Chris Hanscom have a lot of goldfinches at their bird feeder and a lot of other birds, too. The goldfinches like thistle seed.

Cack Bean has a new refrigerator. A lot more refrigerators are going to need replacing in the very near future as well as water heaters. No doubt a stove or two, also.

Janice Hill and Cack Bean were outside on 'New Year's Eve' to watch the lighted car parade and Rebecca Ricker, Olga Morgan and I were watching from the hall. It really was nice. Gets better every year.

On New Year's Eve, Cack Bean, Janice Hill, Ginny Walker, Rebecca Ricker and I watched the fireworks at midnight and then we all went to Jan Hill's for hot chocolate and had a great time. I got home about 12:45 a.m. The fireworks were great. Ginny, Janice and Cack were outside, but Becky and I watched from the hall.

There was a special program at the Bethel Alliance Church on New Year's Eve, singing testimonies of praise and Holy Communion.

Well I do believe that at last I have thanked everyone for all of my Christmas gifts either by mail or in person. I apologize if I did leave anyone out, as I sure did not mean to. I think you should thank folks for a kind deed of a gift but many do not bother. I was brought up to say thanks.

Kenneth and Barbara Wakefield visited me on Tuesday, and Barbara gave me some canceled stamps for my church. We send them to missionaries and they get a lot of good out of them. We need one-quarter inch around each side of the stamp, and even if the stamp is placed neatly in the corner of an envelope, you can open the letter on the bottom of the envelope or on the end opposite the stamp and they are of use to us.

If any more of you out there want to help our missionaries by saving stamps, you can just give them to someone that goes to the Bethel Alliance Church or come visit with us and bring stamps along. You would be most welcome and most welcome to make Bethel Alliance your church.

I am very glad to report that at last Ken Wakefield is back to driving his car some once more, and at last is rid of his back brace since his accident months ago.

Ken brought his dancing Santa along that he got for Christmas, and Santa danced and sang for me.

I am wondering why some mornings my paper is so late. Sure cannot be the weight of the paper weighing the delivery person down or the amount of news in the paper should not take them long to print it as there's nothing in it most of the time.

Sonny Cummings took me to my appointment with Jan at the Health Center on Tuesday, and I got a good report. With two doctors and three physicians assistants now at the Health Center, they still keep plenty busy. Of course each one has a day off, but there is someone on call weekends and holidays.

One person wrote to me and wondered how I could get so lonesome when I had so much company and went out to eat every week. The truth of the matter is that I have done very well with company during the holidays and I had some invitations out. However, now that the holidays are over I do not expect much company, and Vada is in Florida until April, so I will not be eating out every week. She left in October, came back in December and I saw her twice then.

The fact that I cannot get out by myself now and no Vada coming, I can see it might mean some long, lonely days. So I will surely appreciate phone calls, company and letters.

Elaine Dresser was at the Bethel House on Thursday bringing goodies to all the residents, and she played a couple games of cribbage with me and won both games.

Janice Hill was in Portland on Friday.

Lindley Wieden took the Christmas decorations at the Bethel House down on Tuesday.

Sarah Stevens reports different kinds of birds but not as many of one kind as usual. She has seen a male cardinal, chickadees, juncos, purple finches, goldfinches, two kinds of woodpeckers and mourning doves. Nancy Cummings reports about the same on her birds.

Sarah and I think that maybe First National Store's other brand of coffee was Fi Ne St — first two letters in each word of First National Stores. A & P was 8 o'clock. Red Circle and Bokar and First National was Finest, Richmond and Kybo.

Drew Webster assisted on a funeral from the Greenleaf Funeral Home on Monday.

Joyce Seckinger writes that Ethan is taking piano lessons and sometimes plays in church.

There was a 10-inch snowfall in Cherry Hill and that was a big one for there. Ethan and Jedd really did enjoy it.

The Seckingers had a very nice Christmas and Year Year's. Joyce's folks were with them on Christmas. Between Christmas and New Year's they went to visit with some friends that live in New York. On New Year's Day Nathan's sister and family were with Joyce and Nathan and the boys.

Vada and her friend went on a cruise to the Bahamas. They have a very nice church in St. Petersburg and the folks in the trailer park are very friendly and they have lots of get-togethers. She is really enjoying her stay in Florida.

Kathy, Rodney and I were guests of Nancy and Peter Anderson at their home on Chandler Hill for a lovely turkey dinner on Sunday. I certainly had a grant time.

Pastor Rick's message for Sunday, Jan. 7, was "Ultimate Purposes, and Everyday Life."

On the way to Nancy and Peter's, Peter and I saw some wild turkeys by the Mitchell residence.

I have a large, gray female cat, a young one that came by around Halloween time. She has a white belly with a yellow stripe on her tail, a rear leg and front leg. Does she belong to anybody in the area?

Alder River Grange will have a regular meeting on Jan. 12 at Stanley Howe's home on Broadway Street with a 6 p.m. soup or chowder and a 7 p.m. meeting.

Jarrod Crockett is now stationed at Fort Wainwright, Alaska, near Fairbanks. He will be there for three years, and he says it is too cold.

Polly Smith attended a birthday party for Donna S. Bernard on Jan. 6 at Pat's Pizza.

Jean Grover will celebrate her birthday on Jan. 21.

Mr. and Mrs. Otis Bartlett of Gorham, N.H., and Mr. and Mrs. Jonathan Bourne and Lauren of Ogunquit visited at the Bartlett Homestead on Jan. 7.

We haven't had too much snow yet. It looks nice now, but I have a feeling by the end of February I will have had enough. Have a good week.

Sunday River Valley

by Rockie Graham

It's already week two of the new millennium and I am still enamored of writing 01 on everything. I don't know why, but I like it. It somehow seems so clean. Perhaps it is hope for the New Year. Since I have been applying for jobs, I can use some hope. That is the most frustrating thing in the world. Eventually I get to a place where I just don't care. Actually, I am once again coming to the realization that I've had time and again, that I do not want a job in Augusta or Portland. Better to be poor here

The Way I See It

by Sharon Bouchard

Sharon Bouchard's column is published here by special arrangement with the Advertising Department of this newspaper.

You should never try to teach a pig to sing...it's a waste of your time and it annoys the pig.

I wish I could take credit for that little bit of wisdom, but it's not original with me; I saw it on a sign in a catalog. It doesn't have much to do with anything, but it does remind me that I can't sing. Actually, a pig probably can sing better than me or at least carry a tune with more accuracy than I can.

I always wished I could sing because it's something that I really love to do. Unfortunately, I have a flat monotone voice, I can't read music, I can't carry a tune and I'm probably tone deaf to boot.

There are times when in spite of my ailing voice, I sing at the top of my lungs. When I'm driving alone in the car and I have the radio on I can't help myself. I really belt out a tune! You should hear me (actually you shouldn't) if Percy Sledge singing "When A Man Loves A Woman" comes on the radio, I get right into it. In fact, I sound a little like Percy Sledge only flatter and off key. I'm sort of a mixture of Percy Sledge, Bob Dylan and Tiny Tim only lower.

When I'm home alone doing housework I crank up the radio or put on a CD and let my voice out of hiding. I might even pretend a cucumber or the broomstick is a microphone and put on a concert for myself. I'd sing for the cats, but they take off the minute I tune up. With no one around to tell me otherwise, I think I sound pretty good. I don't know why the houseplants die and glasses break.

Even when I try to sing, "Mares eat oats and cows eat oats and little lambs eat ivy" to my four year old grandson, they cover their ears and beg me to stop. The baby just cries.

I never sing in the shower, though I would probably sound better, but I don't like soap and water in my mouth. I never sing before breakfast either. My mother always said, "If you sing before breakfast, you'll cry before supper." I'm not really a superstitious person, but with a voice like mine I don't take any chances.

I've had a vocal inferiority complex most of my life. I think I started when I was a little girl and sang in the church choir. I was the designated alto, which I think is what anyone with a flat monotone voice is called. While all the sopranos and tenors got to sing the beautiful melody parts like "Oh come to the church in the wildwood, oh come to the church in the dale," I was in the background singing "oh come, come, come, come."

Since I didn't have a lot of words I was never given a hymnal. I was just told what word or words to sing and I did. I had to stand next to the organist so she could pull on my pigtail when I was supposed to start singing and pull on it again when I was supposed to stop. Something like that can really damage a kid's vocal confidence I can tell you.

Though I can't sing, I have always felt pretty good about my speaking voice. I went to audition for a part in a play once, totally unaware that the play was a musical. I figured if I could get a small speaking part I might be able to handle it quite well. I'm not all that shy and I can project pretty well when I need to. Unfortunately, the few speaking parts in the play were for the lead singers.

I was getting ready to leave when I sat down to tie my shoe. As luck would have it, auditions started and I was sitting among all these enthusiastic people who were there to try out for chorus and it would have been very rude to get up and leave. The auditions were done row-by-row rather than person-by-person. When it was my row's turn, not wanting to embarrass myself or offend the people next to me, I lip synced the words. I apparently did it very well, because I got the part! I gracefully declined and helped paint scenery instead.

In church when I sing with the congregation I blend in with everyone else as long as I happen to be singing the same hymn. Occasionally my eyes wander and I end up on the wrong line or even worse, the wrong page. Church folks are pretty nice and don't say anything, but I have noticed that no one else sits in the same pew that I'm in.

I know there isn't much that can be done about my pathetic voice. I could take voice lessons, but that would be a little like trying to teach a pig to sing. Rest assured that you won't be seeing me around on Karaoke Night at any of the local lounges though it would be a sobering experience for anyone hearing it.

However, if you should see me alone in my car, my mouth open and a look of pain on my face, rest assured that I'm okay and that it's only Percy Sledge is on the radio. Other than on those occasions, when I find myself with a song in my heart, I will keep it there. And that my friends, is the way I sing it.

than to take to the city. At least that is my 5 a.m. philosophy on the morning of the full moon.

Aside for a few somewhat cold mornings, the New Year has had fairly nice weather. The sun has been shining and the snow has been falling gently. I can live without 20 below and all, especially until we get more snow cover. It is getting better, but ... I got my blow drier back, so I'm ready for the cold, but I'd still prefer to not have to defrost pipes. I've also started the New Year by talking more with more neighbors. It is all too easy, especially this time of year, to hole up and see no one. This year, I am going to make an effort not to do that. Of course, that fits in with my desire to work locally. It is hard to see anyone if I am spending all my time commuting. Instead, I want to spend my time staying in shape — or getting in even better shape — and visiting friends and neighbors, old and new. It seems much more civilized.

Traffic has calmed down here in the Valley now that the holidays are over. That is just fine with me. I wouldn't mind the cars/buses so much if they didn't speed and were quieter. Not having the recycling and trash across the street doesn't cut down on the noise. People thought it fine to come at 11 p.m. or 1 a.m. and blare their radios while dumping their trash. I am glad that is over. I've yet to make it to the Bethel transfer station, but then I burn all my paper and have little other trash. Once a week or once every other week is enough for me. Guess that time will come soon enough and I will check it out. Although it will be harder for me than walking across the street, I am glad the recyclables will be taken care of. I only hope people don't contribute dump tires, bed frames, etc., at the fire station.

Not much else this week. It has been a slow week for me, but I am enjoying the quiet and will await what happens next. Have a good week, and stay warm and dry.

Mason Township

by Richard Grover

In the bleak mid-winter, colds and flu often strike unmercifully. This is the case in Mason, where I only recently recovered from a bad cold, followed by sister Verna Thayer, who is still suffering severe chest congestion. Ina Grover also suffered a few days of hoarseness, runny nose and congestion. Last weekend was Mona's turn for about three days of misery. Then, last Sunday, Dewey Thayer awoke feeling weak and running a temperature. Let's hope everybody is better by press time and that we've survived the worst of this winter's misery.

Our puppy, Snuffy, has refreshed my memory of all those unpleasant little things a puppy does to make life at home frustrating: crying pathetically whenever he is penned up alone, climbing over all barricades meant to keep him confined to the kitchen, soiling floors and/or carpets repeatedly despite continuous efforts on our part to house-train him by frequently putting him outside, chewing everything and anything that happens to attract his attention — shoes, chair legs, papers, carpets, towels and even frozen cow dung. But, then he makes up for everything by simply being the most lovable creature possible, climbing into your lap and nuzzling your neck and licking your face, or by displaying unbridled exuberance, romping and diving into the soft snow.

Last week, I got an e-mail from a friend in Texas which contained some new nominations for Darwin Awards. Remember, Darwin Awards are awarded every year to the persons who died in the stupidest way, thereby removing themselves from the gene pool. My favorite is the following nomination, despite the fact that the guys involved survived.

(from the Arkansas Democrat Gazette) "Two local men were seriously injured when their pickup ...

The accident occurred as the two men were returning to Des Arc after a frog-gigging trip. On an overcast Sunday night, Poole's pickup truck headlights malfunctioned. The two men concluded that the headlight fuse on the older model truck had burned out. As a replacement fuse was not available, Wallis noticed that the .22 caliber bullet from his pistol fit perfectly into the fuse box next to the steering wheel column. After inserting the bullet, the headlights again began to operate properly, and the two men proceeded toward the White River bridge. After traveling about 20 miles and just before crossing the river, the bullet apparently overheated, discharged and struck Poole in the right testicle. The vehicle swerved sharply right, exiting the pavement and striking a tree ... Upon being notified of the wreck, Lavinia, Poole's wife, asked how many frogs the boys had caught and did anyone get them from the truck."

Hanover

by Clem Worcester

Everyone thought it might be a Y2K year long-delayed glitch last Friday when the telephone service to Hanover went down. No one in Hanover could call anyone else in Hanover because the phones just wouldn't ring. We were speechless. A Verizon repairman worked into the night at the Howard Pond Road telephone office and quickly remedied the situation.

Watch out for the flu which is systematically making its way through the area. Primarily involving the workings of the stomach, the victims are miserable for several days.

The South Shore Road is not maintained for winter travel by the Town of Hanover, however several property owners have hired a contractor to plow the road. Keeping the road open proved quite difficult during recent winds, which drifted snow into big mountains near Pete Smith's property. A snow fence is being installed to help reduce drifting in that area.

Sympathy is extended to the Tucker and Easter families upon the death of Althea Tucker. She had lived with her husband, Daniel, on Martin Road in Rumford Point and later on Route 232 at Rumford Corner.

Andover

by Joan Stinson Carney

I am pleased to inform you that Matthew Mills, 13, of Andover, is the recipient of the Silver

Key Award for Excellence in Art. He participated in the Scholastic and Congressional District Art Awards. His work will be on display at the Meca Gallery at 522 Congress Street, Portland, through Jan. 20. He will also be a guest of honor at the regional awards reception on Saturday, Jan. 20. Congratulations, Matthew, that's a fantastic thing you did. He is the son of "Charlie" and Rick Mills of Andover.

The Andover Public Library has a pretty good assortment of large-print books, but Librarian Janet Farrington would like some ideas on what new books patrons would be interested in reading. You can call her at 392-4148 with your ideas. Also, The Bethel Citizen and The Rumford Falls Times are available now at the library. Don't forget to read my column. There is also a really good assortment of books on tape available. Some people read themselves to work instead of listening to the same old songs on the radio. Good idea for those of you who don't have time to read. It was really great to see Barbara Hayden back at the library; I've missed her.

Philena and David Chaisson of Andover are the proud grandparents of Megan Rose Chaisson, who was born Dec. 28 in Boston, Mass. She is the first child of Mark and Nellie Chaisson of Cambridge, Mass. Megan weighed in at 8 pounds, 8 ounces. Maybe eight should be her lucky number.

You can wish a belated happy birthday to Twyla Dolloff, who works at the Andover General Store. She wouldn't reveal her age, but when I find out I'll let you know.

The town of Andover needs a new selectperson. Wendy Green is leaving office after many years of hard work. It is going to be difficult to fill her shoes, but I'm sure we can do it. Nomination papers are available at the Town Office. Mark and Trudy are really very nice to work with; and just think, I'll be your secretary. I know the pay stinks, but the hours aren't bad, and just think how proud you will feel to give something back to the town. The only person you have to watch out for is — well I'll tell you that when you get here. So listen up — run for office.

I heard some very sad news the other day. It seems that Pastor Duane and Joan Waite have been called to another church and will be leaving Andover some time in February. This is another example of trying to find a replacement for something that was already perfect. Their work here has been so wonderful, and they are going to be greatly missed not only by their parishioners, but also by the whole town.

The Wednesday night GED Preparation class will begin from 6 to 8 pm at the Andover School, with Carol Emery as instructor, as soon as new students are enrolled. The fall class was very successful with four students completing their GEDs in time for the holidays, and a fifth soon to do so. Anyone who would like to get started should contact Carol Emery at 392-3161 or the Adult Education office at 824-2780.

The word of the week is macerate. Look it up. See ya.

Upton

by Eleanor LeComte

Midwinter is very quiet in Upton. The sound of an occasional skidder in the woods, the bumping of the snow-plow or a truck shifting gears on Route 26 is as noisy as it gets. Town Meeting will change all that.

There has been a perpetual snowflake falling since Christmas. I'm beginning to believe "old wives tales" about weather and how deep the snow will be. I never did pay too much attention to the "guesswork" in the Farmers' Almanac, but they did predict a lot of white stuff for this year. Last fall we had an inkling when the wasps' nests were high off the ground. The squirrels hid the apples high in the trees, and the "woolly bear caterpillars" gave a variable forecast. One had wide stripes, while another one had narrow stripes. Typical weathermen.

The deer are wandering everywhere in town. They ate hollyhock seeds at the Roy camp and are feasting regularly at bird feeders. They munched on the red Ozier and flowering crabapple trees in the cemetery. Gene Wixom carted quite a few bushels of apples up from Massachusetts. I swear the deer must have smelled them all the way from the Maine Turnpike. The apples have to be chopped before spreading or the bucks will gobble them up before the does and fawns get their share. Boy, do they love apples.

Best wishes to Merna Monroe, who is hospitalized. She should be home soon.

I received a letter from Phyllis Heywood telling me it was Ellen Heywood's 90th birthday on Jan. 10. She was well loved in Upton. Her address is: Ellen Heywood, Apt. 510, North Coast Lodge, 279 North LeCanto Highway, LeCanto, FLA 34461. It would be nice if all her old friends would send her a birthday card.

Fred Bilodeau and Horace Goodrum are ready for some good ice fishing on Umbagog. They moved their "bob houses" down onto the ice last week. Good luck boys, and no lying about the "catch."

Errol has become a mecca for snowmobiling with all this good snow cover. The "Outfitters" are doing a rousing good business renting machines and other equipment.

Sue Angevine is very proud of her new countertop, but I reminded her that everything has a price. She must roll out more pie crusts, so we expect to see more apple pies served at the Angevine household.

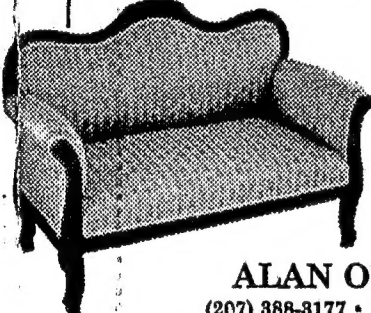

That big, yellow tomcat is still visiting bird feeders, but it doesn't seem to alarm the birds too much.

The evening grosbeaks arrived in a large flock over the weekend. It took about 20 minutes for them to scoot up the sunflower seeds. Sue Nelson observed 20 mourning doves that had dropped in at one of her feeders. The purple finches are in the road in small flocks. Pine grosbeaks and white-wing crossbills have also been seen eating sand on Route 26. Although the evening grosbeaks are noisy, greedy birds, they certainly are beautiful. "Hesperiphona Vesperina" is their Latin name. This bird was not always native to New England. The first flock was observed in the winter of 1889-1890 when a great wave of evening grosbeaks invaded the white countryside. The natives thought they were small parrots. Their name is misleading, as at one time it was believed that they left their dark retreats at the approach of night. It's a pleasing name, but as we all know sunlight is not their enemy. The male is yellow with a black crown and tail. His wings are white and black. The female, less glorious, is silver gray with a yellow-tinted neck and side feathers. Her wings are also black and white. The young birds resemble their mother in coloring. Of course they have the typical large, broad beak. The "Bird of the Week" is the "Evening Grosbeak." You cannot miss seeing their bright, cheerful plumage on a dark winter day.

I always wanted a mink coat, and as I'm sitting here writing this column a mink is running around my back yard. Richard said, "Enjoy the sight, because that's as close as you're getting to a mink coat." Nice guy.

The cold weather certainly has taken hold this past week. We really need a warmer winter, with the oil prices being what they are. We have to keep the hot water heater on all the time to keep the pipes from freezing, which drives the light bill up, and the dogs
don't get enough exercise, and the list goes on. Nevertheless, somehow we all survive with any luck or whatever. It just isn't easy.

We are sorry to hear Phil and Juanita Korhonen lost their 10-year-old grandson to leukemia. They returned to Florida on Wednesday to be with their son and family. They had gone the first time about a month ago when they first heard the child was ill.

Andy and I were in Lewiston Thursday where he had an appointment with his gastroenterolo-gist. He doesn't have to go again until July, if everything goes as smoothly as it has been. We went to Fritz and Norma Peterson's for lunch. Fritz has fully recovered from the problems he had in the fall; that man is remarkable for any age, much less 98. Norma's health is not as good as Fritz's but she "keeps on keeping on." Ellie was on her way to New Jersey to help son Bob, who badly fractured a leg in a fall on the ice. It must have been a horrible experience, as he had to drag himself across a yard and up four steps and through a heavy door to get to a telephone and call for help.

I've been battling a sinus infection since Christmas, one gift I could have done without. I finally gave in and went to the doctor's.
He gave me a prescription for six pills made from gold dust, I'm sure, considering the price. I'm glad I went, as it seems to be on the run.
It has made me very tired though,
as I found out after going to Lewiston.
Usually I take that trip in stride but not this time. I went to bed early and slept nearly 12 hours.

I see that they (those mysterious "theys") are getting ready to dismantle Bertha Flanders' old house.
I hate to see it go but I suppose we have to yield to progress. Certainly our forefathers could never visualize the way travel would be in the 21st century and lay out the town accordingly. It makes me wonder how it will be at the beginning of the 22nd century. What will progress be like then? The mind boggles. Of course, I don't understand the technology we have now. I've hardly figured out how to program the VCR, much less anything else.

Now they (there they are again) have decided we must go digital.
We need more choices supposedly.
We already have so many choices now that shopping has become a pain. Of course, if the choices I like were eliminated I would be the first one to complain. Go figure.

Christmas was as usual here.
Most had their came and had a couple of elves with him this year.

They were a big help for him. So now the children must wait for another year.

Rena Curtis was with some of her children in Freeport over Christmas their home a few days later.

I had a fall, so haven't been as well as I was last week.

tin Lescault was the cantor. Everyone enjoyed having him with them in the choir. Maurice and Cecile sang in the choir, also. A Christmas party was held at Annie's after Mass. It was a pizza party and gifts were exchanged. Annie said she never had received so many gifts in all her life. She had a busy season, also, with company from Portland, Gray, Harrison and Industry. Maurice and Cecile had a busy Christmas Day and after Christmas at their home in West Paris. Their grandson came to visit on Christmas Day along with their own boys, and folks from Industry came to celebrate on Tuesday. When all was said and done, 12 visitors had been received. Also received were many beautiful gifts, but the best gift was having their own family that live in Maine come together for this Holy Season. Happy birthday, Jesus.

The Woodstock Extension will meet on Jan. 17 at the town annex with a tasting party at 1 p.m. The program is on container gardening by Maggie Ring, leader.

Franklin Grange 124 met on Monday, Jan. 1, with a 6 p.m. supper before the meeting, with fifteen members present. The pumpkin bread cooking contest will be held at the next meeting. The program went as follows: opening thought,
"Thank God for a New Year and a new beginning"; opening song,
"It's a Good Thing to be a Granger"; Ritualism by Peggy Blake; song, "This Old Grange"; Positive Leadership by Helvi Cary; mystery march; closing song,
"Auld Lang Syne"; closing thought, "Prior planning prevents a poor performance." The next meeting is Feb. 5 with a Valentine's Day program and a 6 p.m. supper before the meeting.

On Dec. 29, the Woodstock Historical Society gave a plaque to several people at the town complex who helped move the clothespin sign recently in the parking lot of the Society museum. Paul Billings of the building committee made the presentation. The inscription read as follows: "Woodstock Historical Society thanks Vern Maxfield, David Currier and Randy Eastman for your support and hard work on the Mann's Mill sign Oct. 2000." It is wonderful that the town shows its support for the Historical Society by helping it when projects that need special equipment are undertaken. Much thanks. People at the town complex seemed to appreciate the award the Historical Society gave them for helping with the clothespin sign. It is nice sometimes to give a tangible sign of appreciation when individuals help out.

Curator Larry Billings recently read W. Somerset Maugham's novel "Cakes and Ale," which is said to be based on the life of the British author, Thomas Hardy. He is currently reading a Virginia Wolfe novel.

Todd Poland has been a patient at St. Mary's Hospital in Lewiston after having back surgery. He is now recovering at home. We wish him a speedy one.

As I was leaving Wal-Mart, after shopping, in the entryway I saw Aili Benson. She was with her grandson, Jeff Morey. Aili looked well and we chatted for a short while. Aili is my aunt but I don't get to see her as often as I should.

What nice weather we usually have after bad storms. It's like a thank you for putting up with it.

Sympathy goes out to the family and friends of Ruth Pray, who passed away this week. Ruth had been sick for some time. She'll be missed by all that knew her. She leaves her husband, Donald, and two grown children.

Larry Billings, curator of the Woodstock Historical Society, reports that Paul Billings of the Historical Society's building committee recently presented a plaque to three dedicated individuals at the town complex for their help getting the clothespin sign set up at the back of the society parking lot. The three were the town manager, Vern Maxfield; road foreman, David Currier, and Randy Eastman. Thanks a million to all of them. We thought the least we could do was give them a modest award for their help.

Quote of the Week: "I've learned that willpower is the ability to eat just one salted cashew."

West Paris

by Miriam Iman
The West Paris Universalist Church with the minister, the Rev. Joy Gasta, and organist, Susan Glines, meets at 9 a.m.

The sermon topic for Jan. 14 is "Democracy without Farmers," part two of a two-part sermon. It is based on the idea of 18th century American farmer as a totally new kind of person that we are in danger of losing.

Myrtle Heikkinen had open-heart surgery Tuesday at Maine Medical Center in Portland.

Ruth Pray of North Paris died at her home on Jan. 2.

Maxine Cram and Arlene Farr entertained family and friends on Christmas Day. Those present were Troy and Amy Fox, Terry and Georgia Cram, Arnold and Sandy Cram, Andy Cram, Adam Cram and Lee Ann, Alicia Cram and Brandon and Leland Doughty, Jane Perham and Bob Newell have gone to Arizona for the winter.

Georgia Thayer is spending the winter with her daughter and husband, Beverly and Vince Stevens. On Christmas Day the family gathered to celebrate Georgia's 90th birthday, which came on Jan. 2.

East Stoneham

by Eleanor Nelson
Hi readers. The Fox Bros. have been working on Painter's place up at Keewaydin Lake recently.

Troy Nelson has moved back to Stoneham from Massachusetts and has been sawing wood for his grandfather this past week.

Sharon Traish, Aisha and Nawal from Arlington, Mass. were here at the Nelson's over New Year's weekend. They did go back before the storm.

I have started a tradition of cleaning my refrigerator and freezer on New Year's Eve. Not very exciting is it, but it is a good job done. I even did the one (refrigerator) in the shed which needed doing badly. Guy Lombardo's music usually helps me but he didn't this year.

On Tuesday, Jan. 2, Frances Grant treated Thelma Dadmun and JoAnn Hartford to dinner at A.J.'s Everything Restaurant here in Stoneham in celebration of JoAnn's birthday. I didn't get to go as I had a date with a dentist. Take good care of your teeth people, as repair work on them costs an awful lot.

Dr. Terry Mickols Nunes will be having a rabies clinic on Jan. 13, 9 to 11 a.m., at the Stoneham Fire Station. The cost of rabies shots is $8. Anyone is welcome to bring their cats or dogs there for their shots. It's better to be safe than sorry.

Albert and I have colds so I have been busy making chicken stew and homemade cough medicine of butter, onion and molasses. It usually helps.

Bethel Historical Society's Regional History Center

A reading and discussion course in Maine history will be held this winter at the Bethel Historical Society's Regional History Center, beginning on Jan. 30 at the Robinson House on Broad Street, overlooking the historic Bethel Common. The sessions will be held monthly and focus on the Maine past during particular centuries. Coordinator for this series will be Society Director Stanley R. Howe, who has taught Maine history at the university level and was one of the contributors to the textbook for the course: "Maine: The Pine Tree State from Prehistory to the Present (Orono: University of Maine Press, 1995). Space is limited and is available on a first come, first serve basis. The course fee is $20 for nonmembers and $10 for Society members.

For optimum benefits, access to the text is strongly recommended. The book is available at the Society's museum shop. All enrollees will be entitled to the 10 percent member discount on the purchase of the text. A copy will also be available for use in the Society's research room. The course will not only be based on the text, but will be supplemented by other works and historical videos.

To register or to receive further information, please call the Society office at 824-2908 or (800) 824-2910 prior to Jan. 26.

The 2000 Bethel Historical Society Annual Fund Campaign ended last week with a record $15,300 raised from an unprecedented 374 donors. This support assists the Society in balancing its budget and ensures funding for Society programs and projects. Among the latest gifts were those from Frieda and Prentiss Carnell, West Sand Lake, N.Y.; Dr. Donald M. Christie Jr., Gray; Alice H. Kimball, Bethel, in memory of Ralph Kimball; Mary Wheeler, Bethel; Urban and Neda Bartlett, Bethel; Norman and Sylvia Clanton, Bethel; Walter K. Fales, Au Gres, Mich.; David F. Hall, Butte, Mont., in memory of David and Irma Thompson; Dr. Robert M. and Jeanette G. York, Orrs Island; Stanley R. Howe, Bethel, in memory of Lee Mills, Maynard Austin, Albert Judkins, Richard Harding Sr., Robert Goodwin, Betty Laws, Rodney Hackwell, Margaret Sawyer, Edith Coolidge, Barbara Wheeler, Sharon Bennett, Phyllis Dock, Helen Judkins, Irene Russell, Ethel Chapman and John Bayerlein. Much appreciation is expressed to all of the above and everyone else who made the 2000 campaign such a success.

Society receives grant

Walter Hatch, chairman of the Bethel Historical Society Board of Trustees and co-chair of the Capital Campaign Committee, announced this week that the Society had received a $2,500 grant from the Margaret E. Burnham Charitable Trust for its capital campaign. These funds will assist the organization in transforming the 1821 Robinson House, a National Register property on Broad Street, to a state-of-the-art historical museum facility, containing exhibit space, a research library, rooms for traditional craft and museum shop operations, a climate-controlled, fire-proof facility for collections, and a classroom for students of all ages. This building and the adjoining Society property, the Dr. Moses Mason House, now form the Regional History Center, which focuses on the northern New England past.

Once the campaign is completed, the Center, established in 1999, will offer a wider variety of exhibits, conferences, seminars, educational programming, and publications relating to the region's rich and colorful past.

"This gift is deeply appreciated," Hatch said in his announcement. "We are grateful for the vote of confidence in our project displayed by the trustees of the Burnham Trust, as we are well aware of how competitive the grant world has become," he added.

To date, over $500,000 from over 400 individuals, corporations, and foundations has been received and/or pledged toward the $1,000,000+ goal.

With a membership of over 1,100 from 45 states and several foreign nations, the Society possesses a three-person professional staff and nearly a hundred volunteers and currently operates a period house museum and research library throughout the year. Sponsoring a wide range of activities including exhibits, lectures, special events, and educational programming, the Society also publishes its quarterly, The Courier, which is sent to over 1,200 members and friends. Those wishing further information regarding the Society and/or its capital campaign, should call the Society office at (207) 824-2908 or (800) 824-2910 or write P.O. Box 12, Bethel, Maine 04217 or use the e-mail address: (history@bdc.bethel.me.us).

THE MAGIC OF LYN—Seeing is believing. One of the few female illusionists in the world will perform Sunday, Jan. 14 at 7 p.m. at the Grand Summit Hotel at Sunday River Ski Resort, as part of the Black Diamond Family Entertainment Series. A rare mix of polish and down-to-earth appeal, Lyn will capture the imagination of children and adults alike in this very special family show. With more than 20 years of stage experience, The Magic of Lyn has made frequent guest appearances on television and she has worked with such celebrities as Crystal Gayle, Marvin Hamlisch, and Mikhail Baryshnikov. Lyn and her stunning showcase of astounding illusions, has received nationwide acclaim and has earned her the title of the Premiere Female Illusionist in America. Tickets for this family event are $3 for children (12 and under) and $5 for adults in advance or $5 and $7 at the door. Tickets may be purchased on-mountain at the South Ridge Lodging Check-in, the Snow Cap Inn and the Summit Hotel or at Books & Things in Bethel.

L.A. Brass Quintet to perform

On Thursday, Jan. 11th at 7:30 p.m., the Los Angeles Brass Quintet will present a concert of popular and classical music at Gould Academy's Bingham Auditorium.

The five young musicians who comprise the L.A. Brass Quintet — Steven Siminski, trombone; Liesl Perkins, French horn; Jason Foltz, trumpet; Nathan McIntyre, tuba; and Rich Candelaria, trumpet — have traveled a long way from their homes in sunny southern California to bring their music to communities in Maine. L.A. Brass performances in Maine have been made possible by a grant from New York based Chamber Music America, which receives funding from the National Endowment for the Arts. Each member of the quintet is an experienced musical educator as well as a world class chamber musician.

The concert at Gould is open to the public. Tickets are $6 for adults and $4 for students, and may be purchased at the door.

THE HANOVER FERRY as it looked about a century ago, from the East Bethel shore looking toward Hanover village. The ferry was established in 1873, one-third owned by the Town of Bethel and two-thirds the property of the Town of Hanover. It continued to operate until 1934. This photograph is one of thousands that can be found at the Bethel Historical Society, which also possesses an outstanding collection of manuscripts, books, documents, and artifacts relating to western Maine and northern New Hampshire. The society is currently raising funds to establish its Regional History Center on Broad Street and the 1821 O'Neil Robinson House, which now houses exhibit galleries, offices, and the museum shop. Completion of this project will provide for improved storage space and greater access to collections as well as rooms devoted to educational activities, genealogical and historical research, and traditional crafts. Once the center is fully operational it will offer an expanded series of lectures, special events, conferences, courses, seminars, and publications. To learn more about this project, call the society at 824-2908 or (800) 824-2910 or use the e-mail address history@bdc.bethel.me.us or visit the web site <http://orion.bdc.bethel.me.us/~history>.

Obituaries

RUTH E. PRAY

Ruth E. Pray, 70, of West Paris, died in her home on Tuesday, Jan. 2, 2001, with her family at her side. Born in North Paris, Sept. 19, 1930, to Milford and Madelyn Gibbs Herrick, she attended schools in North Paris and West Paris.

She married Donald Pray on June 29, 1947 and had resided on the homestead they built together in West Paris since then. She lived her time giving assistance to others, most specifically, as a wife and mother.

Her contributions to the community and friends included many years as a house mother during her children's school years, 4-H leadership, church deaconess, 10 years of service as a certified nurse's assistant at Ledgeview Nursing Home, participation in the Rebekahs and as a member of the American Legion Auxiliary. She also served on the SADI7 School Board, West Paris Library Board, as a census taker and a town ballot clerk.

Mrs. Pray enjoyed outdoor activities on the homestead such as maintaining a large garden of vegetables and working side by side with her husband haying and gathering firewood each year.

Survivors include her husband; a son, Allen of Mechanic Falls; a daughter, Ellen Green of Anchorage, Alaska; a granddaughter, Hillary Poulin of Lewiston; two brothers, James Herrick of Nevada and Richard Herrick of Oxford; two sisters, Freda Stevens of West Paris and Ethel Pray of South Paris; an aunt, Ora Ryerson of North Paris; and numerous cousins, nieces, nephews and friends. She was predeceased by a brother, Robert Herrick.

ELWIN W. BROWN JR.

Elwin W. "Junior" Brown Jr., 76, of Evergreen Road, Bethel, died late Thursday evening, Jan. 4, 2001 at the Norway Rehabilitation Center, where he had resided for the past week.

Mr. Brown was born in Rumford, Sept. 4, 1924, son of the late Elwin W. and Jenny (Day) Brown, and attended Upton schools. He had been associated with the Oxford Paper Company, since 1950, and retired from Boise in 1986. In his younger years, Junior enjoyed hunting, fishing, and trapping, but in his later years, his enjoyment came from gardening, public supports, and traveling. He truly enjoyed talking with people and had the ability to recall names, dates and places with ease.

He married the former Bernice Jordan, Nov. 1, 1951, who survives him.

Mr. Brown was a member of the 35-Year Club of Boise, and had resided in Bethel for the past 49 years.

Besides his wife he is survived by a sister, Elsie Fortin of Hanover; two brothers: Charles Brown of Montana, and Gordon Brown of Bryant Pond; as well as several nieces and nephews.

Funeral services were held at the Locke Mills Union Church on Monday, Jan. 8. Burial will be in the spring. Friends who wish may make donations to: Locke Mills Union Church, P.O. Box 147, Greenwood, ME 04255.

Card of Thanks

The family of John P. Bayerlein would like to thank everyone for the cards, flowers, food and words of encouragement during our recent & unexpected loss.

John loved living in Bethel. As a young boy, his dreams of living in a small town became a reality as he became a grown man. The 15 years he lived here, he felt blessed each and every day. As a family, we also were blessed with his foresight to see that there is more to life doing what you want to do, and not what someone else expects you to do. We are grateful to be a part of this caring and loving community.

Bless you all, Mary Beth Bayerlein, Kenneth and Elisabeth Wetzel Scott, Sherri, Hannah and William Grisack
